Selsey RNLI inshore lifeboat searches for missing woman.

The volunteer crew at Selsey launched the D-class lifeboat (ILB) at 7.38pm on Tuesday 17 October to assist Sussex police and the UK Coastguard search for an 82 year old woman missing from her home in Pagham.

The ILB crew were asked to search close inshore from Pagham harbour to the east with Selsey and Littlehampton Coastguard teams conducting a shoreline search. At the time of the call the Selsey all-weather lifeboat was exercising south of the lifeboat station so made best speed to the area to assist the ILB. Both lifeboats arrived on scene at 7.49pm.

The weather on scene was wind North Easterly force 2 sea state calm with good visibility. After ten minutes of searching the woman was found safe and well between Felpham and Littlehampton. All units were stood down and returned to station. The ILB crew tonight were Helmsman Will Moir, Craig Sergeant and Andy Lee.

Selsey RNLI all-weather lifeboat called to yacht sinking.

UK Coastguard requested the immediate launch of the Selsey all-weather lifeboat (Alb) after the crew of the 8.5 metre yacht Paper Moon reported they had lost their propeller shaft and had water ingress. The Paper Moon gave their position as one mile east south east of the boathouse.

The Shannon class lifeboat Denise and Eric was launched at 11.43am on Thursday 26 October with a crew of six volunteers. The Alb was quickly on scene and transferred two lifeboat crew and the salvage pump to the yacht. As a precaution the two people on the yacht were taken aboard the lifeboat. The weather on scene was wind south west force 2 sea state smooth in overcast skies.

After pumping out the water from the bilges the water ingress was stemmed with rags and a bung by the two lifeboat crew. At 12.10pm a line was passed to the Paper Moon and a tow was established between the two vessels. At 12.15pm a course was set for Chichester harbour and the tow commenced.

The tow to Chichester was uneventful with no further ingress of water and the harbour entrance was reached at 2.30pm. After bringing the Paper Moon to an alongside tow the yacht was taken to Sparkes marina and safely berthed alongside at 2.45pm. The Alb departed Sparkes marina at 3.15pm

Selsey RNLI all-weather lifeboat launches to power boat with engine failure

The volunteer crew at Selsey were paged on Friday 27 October after the UK Coastguard had received an emergency call via mobile phone from the owner of the 18ft power boat Halo reporting his engine had failed.

The Halo reported they were west of Selsey Bill but could not give any better position and that they had two adults and three children aboard all wearing lifejackets. The Selsey Shannon class lifeboat Denise and Eric launched at 4.06pm and made best speed to the area.

Approximately one mile west of Selsey the lifeboat crew sighted what appeared to be a flare so headed towards that position. The lifeboat arrived on scene with the Halo at 4.14pm at a position three miles west of Selsey Bill. The skipper confirmed he had let off the flare and that they were all well on board. Before establishing a tow with the Halo all the persons aboard the vessel were taken on to the lifeboat.

One of the lifeboat crew went aboard the Halo to rig the tow line and stayed with the vessel during the passage to Chichester harbour. The vessel was towed to Sparkes marina and safely berthed alongside at 5.10pm. The lifeboat departed Sparkes marina at 5.30pm to return to Selsey.

At 6.05pm the lifeboat arrived back at station and was rehoused straight away. The crew today were Coxswain Rob Archibald, Mechanic Phil Pitham, Geoff Mellett, Gary Pearce, Sam Troughton-Smith and Kristina Dolan.

FRIENDS OF SELSEY MEDICAL CENTRE (FSMC)

This month, we hope that the provision of new check in screens and TV call screens supplied by the Friends in October for the downstairs waiting areas are proving beneficial to one and all.

Those of us who have visited the Medical Centre in the past few weeks will have noticed some changes in this regard. Seating has been rearranged in the waiting areas to make for a more comfortable experience for patients waiting to be called in by the clinicians. The new, easier to see, call-in screens, and additional community information is, we hope, a welcome improvement.

As became apparent, the changes highlighted the need to freshen up the décor. So the Friends once again came to the rescue, providing a new and welcoming environment. Amazing what a little new paintwork can do!

Please do consider joining us if you are not already a member. To join, call our Membership Secretary, Lesley Webber on 01243 606878 or alternatively pick up a Membership form at the middle desk in the Medical Centre. And we continue to seek a new Activities Officer to take us forward! Could you help? We are a friendly group.

As Christmas approaches, and on behalf of my fellow trustees on the Friends committee, I would like to take this opportunity to wish you all a very happy festive season, and a happy and healthy 2018.

You care We support you Registered Charity No.: 1097538

By the time you read this, Selsey Carers' Support new premises will be up and running.

It has been a difficult time for all the Trustees and myself. Hard decisions have had to be made but we have emerged stronger and more resilient. I would like to say a big, personal thank you to all the Trustees and our wonderful volunteers for their enormous support – it has been much appreciated.

Running a Charity is not easy these days and it was essential to cut costs and look at ways of ensuring our sustainability.

The move was not without its challenges but the fact remains that our premises at 109 High Street were not financially viable and we have to ensure that we can fulfil the aims and objectives of the charity which is to support the Carers in our town.

I am not unaware that the changes have been unsettling for some; I regret that this has been the case but the important thing is that we now move forward, positively and ensure that we do the best we can for our members. We want to pro-actively help and ensure that they feel supported

We are anticipating holding a few 'open' coffee mornings – everyone, whether a carer or not will be very welcome and we very much hope that you will take this opportunity to come and have a cup of something with us, maybe a piece of cake and hear more about what we are doing.

Once again, many thanks to our fellow residents for their support..

07/10/17 12:34

Team paged to a report of a possible surfer in difficulty out at sea off East Beach Road.

The team met up with the first informant and other members of the public and we thank them for all their help and the information they gave us.

Both Selsey Lifeboats were then paged to carry out a search off Pagham Harbour, a Kayaker was found and had been in the water for some time. The kayaker was exhausted and had been in the water for some time. The kayaker was then taken to Littlehampton where Littlehampton Coastguard Team and Littlehampton Lifeboats were also tasked.

The kayaker said he was one of a group of seven kayakers so a search took place to find the others and to make sure they were all ok.

Selsey Lifeboats found the group of Kayakers who were all safe and well and all had the right safety equipment with them and radios.

All assets were then stood down to return to stations.

17/10/17 19:02

Team paged alongside Littlehampton Coastguard Team and Selsey Inshore Lifeboat to assist Sussex Police with the search for an 82 year old missing person.

Teams were tasked to search the Pagham area around the persons home, where they were last seen, with plenty of Coastguard Rescue Officers on scene four search teams were deployed to cover the area.

Thankfully, shortly after the teams had started their searches, it was confirmed that the person had been found safe and well between Felpham and Littlehampton.

All assets were then stood down to return to stations. Returning to station at 20:45.

21/10/17 09:09

Team paged to a kayak washed up on the beach between James Street and Lifeboat Way.

Details and photos sent to Solent Coastguard and an investigation was carried out and the kayak taken back to station. If you have lost a kayak please contact us!

21/10/17 13:47

Team paged with HM Coastguard Littlehampton, Coastguard Helicopter Rescue 175, Sussex Police, and the Shannon Lifeboat from Selsey Lifeboat Station, to reports of a person seen in the water on their back that had lost their body board over in Bognor.

All coastguard rescue teams mustered and five search teams were deployed from the shore. Coastguard Helicopter Rescue 175 carried out a search pattern of the area as did Selsey Lifeboat. While the search continued two people made themselves known to us, and said they had been out on their boards. With all details taken and fed back to Solent Coastguard we were happy that these were the people that we were searching for and all assets were stood down to return to station at 15:45.

21/10/17 15:56

On route back to station from the previous incident, Solent Coastguard had taken a 999 call from a member of the public who had seen a windsurfer off Brackelsham Bay that looked like they were in difficulty. Team proceeded immediately towards Brackelsham, Selsey Lifeboat was also tasked to this incident, but we were stood down on route with reports the windsurfer was now out of difficulty and ok.

Returning to station to repack and do the wash down. Leaving station at 17:15.

A safety patrol of the local area was also carried out this morning and advice given where necessary to members of the public.

22/10/17 15:11

Team paged alongside Hayling Lifeboat to reports of a windsurfer in difficulty/possible log off Bracklesham.

The team carried out a shore line search and carried out investigations with surfers and other sea users in the car park. A very large log was found, and with the first informant confirming that this was probably what he had seen, and with no one else seeing anyone in difficulty the team and the lifeboat were stood down to return to station.

A false alarm this time but with good intent.

28/10/17 12:56

Team paged to an injured Kitesurfer that needed medical assistance at West Wittering.

The team assisted the ambulance service and helped the casualty off the beach in our stretcher to the ambulance; the casualty was then taken to hospital.

04/11/17 20:12

Team paged to a potential missing person after clothes were found at Hillfield Car Park.

Two search teams were deployed to the East and the West and Selsey Inshore Lifeboat was also tasked and carried out a search pattern.

With nothing found and no reported missing people in the area all teams and the Lifeboat were stood down to return to stations at 21:55.

Selsey Coastguard Team would like to wish you all a very Happy and Safe Christmas.

THE VICARS OF SELSEY SERIES THOMAS MANNINGHAM DD 1683 – 1750

Thomas Manningham was the eldest son of Thomas Manningham who was consecrated Bishop of Chichester on 13 November 1709 and the grandson of Richard Manningham, Rector of Michelmersh, Hants. His mother was Elizabeth, maiden name unknown. He was baptised on 24 September 1683 at East Tisted, Hampshire and admitted to Eton College as a King's Scholar which meant that he would have lived in the College. This was from 16 September 1697 to 1701. From there he was admitted to King's College, Cambridge on 14 December 1701 where he matriculated. He was a Fellow from 1704 to 1712. Thomas gained a BA between 1705/6. On 18 December 1708 he became Deacon, being ordained Priest exactly one year later by Bishop John Moore at Ely Cathedral.

At this point I contacted Cambridge University Library and received a very informative email from Colin T Clarkson, Head of the Reference Department, which gives us a very good idea of Thomas Manningham's duties. I quote:

'Thomas Manningham must have been chaplain to Bishop Moore at some point between his own ordination and Moore's death on 31 July 1714. Moore employed, I believe at his expense, a succession of Chaplains, sometimes more than one simultaneously. I have no special knowledge of the subject, but it is my impression that a Chaplain would be expected to attend on the bishop for much of the time as a member of his household or entourage. However, it was not unknown for one of his chaplains simultaneously to have held a living, although his parochial duties might in turn have been delegated to a Curate. Among the Chaplain's duties would have been the giving of communion to the Bishop.

Atypically, at least some of Moore's chaplains were also involved in the management of his library (held at Ely House in London). As David McKitterick says in Cambridge University Library: a history, vol. 2 (p. 58) ...

'as bishop, Moore was relieved of much of the necessity of dealing in person with payments to booksellers, and on many occasions the task, with sundry other mundane ones, fell to his chaplains.'

This was no mean task as the library was a collection of up to 30,000 volumes, including some 1800 manuscripts. Thomas went on to gain his MA in 1709.

On 13 July 1713 Thomas married Mary Yates at Warnham in Sussex. Mary was the daughter of Thomas Yates, Esq., MP for Chichester from 1734 to 1741. They had a daughter Elizabeth who was baptised at Slinfold on 13 July 1714. Sadly, Elizabeth died on 12 November 1733, aged 19 and she was buried in the North Cross at Westminster Abbey.

Then came another daughter, Ann who was baptised 22 March 1716. Ann married Thomas Potter and the marriage was reported in the Stamford Mercury of 28 February 1740.

of Jack Ketch about his Neck. On Saturday laft Thomas Potter, Efq; fecond Son to h his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, was married at St. Margaret's Church Westminster to Miss Manning-ham, Daughter to the Rev. Dr. Manningham one of the f Frebendaries of St. Peter's Westminster, a young Lady n This Moraing died of the Small-Pox, at her Houfe

We shall hear more of Thomas Potter later.

Thomas and Mary's first son, Thomas, was baptised on 24 February 1717. He became Vicar of Wisborough Green, died in 1777 and was buried at Slinfold.

The last child was Richard Manningham who was baptised on 8 February 1718. He died in 1745 and was buried in Slinfold on 5 May of that year.

But to return to our Rector.

Between 7 August 1711 and 25 May 1750 Thomas Manningham was the Prebendary at Chichester Cathedral as well as receiving the prebend of Ipthorne which was a considerable estate. And here I am indebted to Reverend Dr. Alison Green, Curate and Safeguarding Officer, Chichester Cathedral, who explained that a Prebendary is a priest who had a seat in the Cathedral while a prebend was a monetary grant which enabled the employment of priests and vicars to carry out tasks in livings on behalf of the incumbent. In 1724 Thomas was made Doctor of Divinity.

Simultaneously, Thomas held the post of Rector at Slinfold from 6 October 1711 until 1750, Rector of Selsey, upon the death of William Nicholls, from 23 May 1712 until his own death in 1750 and Treasurer at Chichester Cathedral from 17 September 1712 until 1750. He was also Prebendary of Westminster from 1720 to 1750 and Chaplain to the Speaker of the House of Commons at the same time. So you would expect Thomas to be rather busy, wouldn't you?

But consider the logistics. Today, in a car, with modern roads, it takes at least an hour to get from Selsey to Slinfold. Thomas may have had a horse and/or a carriage but the journey would have been very long and tedious. Slinfold is a rectory, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Chichester plus income. Selsey is a Rectory and Vicarage united, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Chichester plus income. Given that the Bishop is also Dad, does this come under the heading of 'providing for the family?' Both Selsey and Slinfold were sinecures i.e. positions requiring little or no work but giving the holder status or financial benefit.

And as Thomas had so many responsibilities I think it is safe to conclude that he would have employed curates to assist him. We know for certain that his son Richard was curate of Slinfold but what of Selsey? Where was our curate? And what was Thomas doing?

In Edward Heron-Allen's Selsey Bill, page 190 we find the following entry concerning the Church at Church Norton:

<sup>c</sup> In 1724, during the Rectorship of Dr. Thomas Manningham, Commissioners appointed to report upon the structure, reported that 'the church is in good repair. There wants a new common prayer book. The communion plate is a pewter flagon, and a silver chalice, with a cover. There is a poors box and a chest for the surplice. Four bells, but not hung up, the tower where they formerly hung is fallen down. They seem to be good bells, worth hanging. The Chancel is repaired by the Rector.'

Just the one surplice you notice!

Between 1731 and 1743 a book was published, in instalments, in London, at the author's own expense, entitled 'Mark Catesby's Natural History of Carolina, Florida and the Bahama Islands' and a digital version is available on line. Our Rev. Thomas is listed as an 'encourager of work'.

In 1741 another gentleman, Johann Dillienius, wrote a tome entitled 'Historia Muscorum' which sought to enumerate all of the 'lower plants' that he knew. 250 copies of the book were published and cost one guinea each but the book sold poorly and was a financial failure. The Department of Plant Sciences of the Oxford University Herbaria tells us that 'The majority of specimens in the Herbarium of the Historia Muscorum were probably collected by Dillenius... However there are numerous known contributors' one of whom is Rev. Thomas Manningham. I am grateful to Dr. Stephen Harris, Druce Curator of Oxford University Herbaria for his permission to use this data.

As recently as 25 February 1994, Rev. Thomas Manningham appears in reference books, specifically the 'Dictionary of British and Irish Botanists and Horticulturalists including Plant Collectors, Flower Painters and Garden Designers'. It was compiled by Ray Desmond and published by Taylor & Francis in conjunction with the Natural History Museum. The volume states 'Thomas Manningham introduced rare plants to Slinfold' but no mention is made in his potted history of his being Rector of Selsey.

Thomas Manningham died on 4 May 1750. He had made his will on 15th July, 1748. His son, Thomas Manningham, was bequeathed 'all those my farms and lands (in and around Slinfold) as well as 'my two barns and gaterooms situate and being in the Parish and Island of Selsey...my share, right and interest of and in the Rectory or Parsonage and (undeciphered word) tithes of Walberton...'. He also inherited 'all my household goods, books, cabinets and other goods and chattels in and about my dwelling house and premises in Slinfold and elsewhere.'

I am led to believe that 'a gateroom' is a sort of utility room, usually separate from the main dwelling...a low status structure or it is an obsolete term for "a lodge at the gate of an estate", i.e. something a little more up-market than a garden shed.

A postcard of Slinfold printed in Saxony when Inland postage was ½d and Foreign postage was 1d. The current church was built in 1861 on the site of the original medieval parish church and does not have a steeple. It is described in Lewis' Topographical Dictionary of England' dated 1848 thus: 'the church is an ancient edifice with a low tower'.

The card is dated around 1902 as that is when a division between the message and the address was introduced. The image can be no later than 1860 unless anyone out there knows better!

At some point, our Vicar had granted to his son-in-law Thomas Potter, Esq. all his farmlands situated in Slinfold and now he was asking him to transfer them back to son Thomas.

Thomas Potter junior, his Grandson, was to receive 'all my capital stocks in the public funds to whit my old and new South Sea Annuities...'

Quite how valuable these were is debatable. I'm sure we all know of The South Sea Bubble and the uproar it caused in England. The South Sea Company was founded in 1711, peaked in 1720 and crashed later that same year. In 1721 formal investigations exposed a web of deceit, corruption and bribery, MP's were sacked and the Clergy and Gentry lost their life savings. Perhaps Thomas had held on to the stocks hoping the tide would turn and they would, again, be worth something.

Thomas also made several small bequests to servants (£5 each to be paid within six months of his death).

He appointed Edward Carleton of Arundel, gentleman, to be the Sole Executor of his Will and left him the sum of £100 with which to carry out his wishes. Edward Carleton was a Lawyer living in Arundel High Street. He was Mayor of Arundel between 1746 and 1759 and his memorial in Arundel Church reads: 'Sacred to the memory of Edward Carleton, Esq., (many years an active and conciliating magistrate of this county, and Major-commandant of the Arundel Volunteer Battalion), who died, universally regretted, March 10th AD 1813 in the 63rd year of his age'.

But all did not go smoothly. Thomas Potter senior had been granted the right to 'administer' his son's inheritance 'for the use and benefit of the said minor...' as junior was under 21. He must have felt hard done by because he maintained that there was a second Will dated 7th October 1748 and that he was the Executor of this later Will. Quite why this should be I cannot fathom. We know from his marriage that his wife had 'a handsome fortune' and she had died in 1743/4. We also know that he was the son of the Archbishop of Canterbury. The Newcastle Courant from Saturday October 31 – Saturday November 7, 1747 reported 'we hear that Doctor Potter, the late Archbishop of Canterbury, died worth near ninety thousand pounds which he has chiefly left to his son, Thomas Potter Esq., Member of Parliament for St. Germains' (which is in Cornwall). A goodly sum even today!

The upshot was that everyone took everyone else to Court for a judgement. The Court room must have been packed on 3 December 1750. There were proctors (solicitors) acting on behalf of Edward Carleton and Thomas Potter while Mary Manningham and her son Thomas shared another, all the proctors 'praying justice to be done to his party'.

Thomas Potter must have been even more upset as the word 'pretended' crops up repeatedly in the Court records. It is tempting to regard it as meaning 'fake' although perhaps 'claimed' would be a more polite and accurate term. The October Will, Executor, and the date were all 'pretended'.

John Bettesworth, Doctor of Laws and Commissary of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury did 'pronounce, decree and declare that the aforesaid pretended Will...was and is null and invalid...' and the Will was proved the same day. He and George Hay signed the judgement. George Hay was the Judge at the Prerogative Court of Canterbury.

On 2 July 1751 Mary Manningham died and was buried in the North Cross at Westminster Abbey with her daughter on 5 July. According to the registers at Westminster Abbey 'The Funeral Book gives her age as sixty-two...Her will, dated 27 April 1751 was proved 6 July following, by her son, Rev. Thomas Manningham, of Green, co Sussex, to whome she left all her estate.'

Collegiate Church of St Peter at Westminster www.thethinkersgarden.com

To return to the earlier question of curates in Selsey, these appear to be the unsung heroes of the Clergy often being paid a pittance by their employers. According to Edward Heron-Allen in Selsey Bill 1911 there were several assistant curates in Selsey during the incumbency of Thomas Manningham:

1702 – 1712 John Darling BA, 1719 – 1744 Thomas Lamprey, 1744-1768 Richard Downes so perhaps it is these people we should be researching!

Historian and Reverend James Dallaway held the living of Slinfold from 1803 to 1834 (although he resided at his other living in Leatherhead) and his County History of the Western Part of Sussex (1815) stated, of Selsey, that 'No vicar has been appointed for many years past.' This was duly copied by Thomas Horsfield in 1835. British History Online says 'Although the Rectory is called a sinecure and the Vicarage is said to be in the gift of the Rector in the 18th century, no vicar seems to have been instituted after 1663.' But we know Selsey is a Rectory and Vicarage united so perhaps it is merely the 'title' of vicar that hasn't been used.

And one further oddity arises:

The Church in Selsey is the Church of St Peter, The Church in Slinfold is the Church of St Peter while the formal title of Westminster Abbey is The Collegiate Church of St Peter at Westminster. Coincidence?

Thanks are also due to Mrs. Eleanor Hoare, College Archivist, Eton College Library for her potted histories of the Manningham family and to Julian Bell, Curator, Weald & Downland Living Museum

this is how it's done….

As many of you will know, we have been fitting Public Access Defibrillators (PADs) around Selsey and there are now six in place with at least 2 more to come. But we know also that people are very wary of them indeed, one may say, frightened. To show that there is no magic in using them we decided that we needed to give 'hands on' demonstrations as to their use.

We have given demonstrations in the past to selected groups and on Lifeboat Day. However, a more general event was needed and, thanks to St Wilfrid's Catholic Church for giving us the use of their Hall and to many members of the Church for their considerable help, the event was arranged. But, how many people would come - 10 ... 20 ... - , we had no idea. In the end, over 100 people attended. A figure well beyond our expectations. The business and residents of Selsey funded the PADs and it is clear that they have a great interest in how to use them and the success of the scheme.

> We will be holding general demonstrations at different locations in the future and these will be advertised well in advance. More photographs and further information will be appearing on our website very shortly. Finally, as you can see, you are never too young to learn the skill of defibrillator operation. www.selseyfirstresponders.org

Medmerry Primary School said farewell to one of its most longstanding friends on Friday 10th November as school crossing patrol officer Annie Winsor hung up her lollipop for the last time.

Annie has patrolled the crossing at School Lane for over thirty years, and now has become used to seeing parents crossing the road who were once pupils at the school. To celebrate her retirement from the role, Annie attended an assembly at the school where she was presented with a leaving card, flowers, a specially-crafted lollipop crossing cake, and a collection of gift vouchers bought by parents, staff and friends of the school.

In her final words to the children, she recounted some stories of her work over the years, including seeing a fox and a wood mouse across the road after the rush of children!

Mr Tidd, headteacher at Medmerry Primary School said, "In the short time I've been at Medmerry, it is clear how valued Annie has been, and what a central part of the school community her role is. She will be missed by the school and its students, but also by parents and those in the area who have seen Annie getting children across the road safely in all weathers for three decades."

After years of serving come rain or shine, Annie's retirement plans already include a holiday in the south of France.

Selsey Community Forum : Registered Charity Number 1156460 What started out as an innocent Facebook post showing an elderly lady with only a broken mattress, and a thought to be mindful of others quickly progressed to the people of Selsey getting together and providing her with a new upright rising chair, curtains, cutlery and warm bedding and food.

We also started a just giving page, with those same eager people dipping in their pockets allowing us to to provide the rising chair. In fact we raised so much money that we had an excess of £500!

We wanted to help those people who are vulnerable and alone, especially those alone at Christmas. We spoke to Julie and Danny from the Selsey Community Forum and found out about the fantastic work it does and the dinner it provides on Christmas Day for those people on their own and also about the food packages they deliver along with buying food for the food bank.

It was decided to donate the money to them to help with Christmas.

Louise and I would like to thank the wonderful people of Selsey for everything they have given and donated, and want to wish everyone a Lovely Christmas and a Prosperous New Year.

The Royal Naval Association, Selsey Branch, held its 39th Trafalgar Night Dinner/Dance since its inauguration, this time, for the first time ever outside Selsey, at The Chichester Park Hotel on the 19th October. Some ninety members and guests, including contingents from adjacent RNA branches, were superbly hosted and catered for in a very pleasing environment.

Our Guests of Honour were Robin Tubbs and his wife, Molly. Robin, a RN Korean war veteran, and former Police Chief inspector, is our RNA No. 3 Area President. He met Molly when he was with the RN in Malta and she was serving in the WRNS.

By kind donation from so many individuals and businesses we are truly grateful that our raffle raised over £500. We especially thank: F A Holland; The Old Piggery Farm Shop; The Anchor Inn; The Seal Hotel; The Riviera Restaurant; Nature's Way; Highhouse Insurance Services; The Crab & Lobster, Sidlesham;

Brick Kiln Garden Centre; West Dean Gardens;

South Downs Planetarium; Runcton Farm Shop; The Royal Maritime Club in Portsmouth; Birdworld in Farnham; Stansted Park at Rowlands Castle; and Uppark House at South Harting.

Our Trafalgar Dinner, closely followed by Remembrance Sunday, not only invokes reflection on those who were lost or injured in formal battle but for all who have been adversely affected by conflicts, wherever our service personnel have served. And, sadly, once again this year the Grim Reaper has called on a few of our fine members, whom we sorely miss.

Even so, we still maintain a strong membership of eighty, enjoying a comprehensive social programme throughout the year, and enjoy giving a helping hand in the community where we can.

From us all in The Selsey Branch of the RNA, we wish everyone a Happy Christmas and a healthy, prosperous New Year.

I must not bow my head these days Or duck my chin or search the shelf For books beneath bifocal gaze: I hit my head and hurt myself.

Three times this week (you'd think I'd learn), I thought my eyes were level-lined Up with my scalp. A screaming burn Of blood and wood and skin combined.

> To spring the anger and the hate, I held my head and gently crooned Of pillows soft, inanimate, To sooth my shelf-inflicted wound.

LONDON'S CHRISTMAS LIGHTS

The first street lights to appear in London were in 1680, when households and shops were legally required to hang a lantern outside their property. By the early 18th Century early gas lamps cast gloomy pools of light on London Bridges and streets.

The first electric street lamps were invented by the Russian, Pavel Yablochkov in 1875. These worked by passing an alternating electric current through carbon. In 1878 Londons' first electric street lamps were installed at Holborn Viaduct and Thames Embankment.

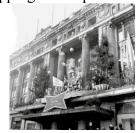

In 1881 The Savoy Theatre was the first building in the world to be lit entirely by 1,200 Swan Incandescent light bulbs. In 1882 Richard D'Oyly Carte decorated the principal fairies of the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Iolanthe with miniature bulbs, which became known as fairy lights. Tiny bulbs were then hand painted in red and green and used to decorate trees in houses that had electricity.

It was not until the 1950s that Christmas lights first appeared in London's West End.

In 1900 the West End of Oxford Street was an unfashionable collection of non descript shops. In 1906 Harry Gordon Selfridge opened his first department store in London's West End.

Selfridge was a visionary who revolutionised shopping. He believed that shopping could be a leisure pursuit, stores should be an inviting place for people to browse and socialise, and of course do most of their shopping in one place.

То encourage shoppers into the store, Selfridge created an element of theatre bv arranging elaborate window displays. The displays were kept covered by silk curtains and the dates of unveilings were announced in national and provincial newspapers. Viewing the Christmas window displays soon became a tradition in London.

The idea of a trip to London to see decorations and do the Christmas shopping grew. It was not until 1954 that traders in Regent Street first came together to decorate the street with Christmas lights in a bid to entice shoppers away from competing shops in Oxford Street. Lights first appeared in Oxford Street in 1959.

In the late 1970s Oxford Street Traders announced that their Christmas lights would feature a new invention. laser light. Thousands flocked to see the lights switched on, and were either amazed or disappointed as they stared at a single green laser light that zig zagged down the street, as it bounced off the upper floors of the buildings.

Over fifty years Londons Christmas Lights have become an attraction in themselves, with celebrities switching them on. Lights now include lasers and LEDs, and lighting designers are brought in to develop bigger, better, and brighter displays.

Streets and towns across the country soon saw the advantages of colourful lights during the busy Christmas shopping period and Carnaby Street has developed a distinct style for bold, kitch decorations.

This year Selfridges is once again leading the trend becoming the by first department store in the world to unveil their Christmas windows two months before Christmas and having two themes. The first, 'With Love From...' was unveiled at the beginning of October, and at the end of November the store will unveil its' second themed display.

Despite the huge growth in online shopping, the tradition of Londons Christmas Lights looks set to excite and delight for many years to come.

NEXT MONTH: HAPPY NEW YEARS

A story for Christmas..

WHITE OUT

by Pat Read

He'd heard of a white out, but never experienced one until this moment, and now he knew how it got its name. The dense blizzard had slowed his car to walking pace and he wondered how long before it came to a complete halt. He could no longer see the road ahead, even though it was a wide road under normal conditions, but he had to get home. Had to get home to tell Ann he loved her, had to get home to explain things, to stop her leaving him alone this Christmas. If he could only turn the clock back, she'd be there waiting for him in the warm, a meal ready for him, the tree bedecked with glitter and lights. He looked down at his mobile again. 'Blast this thing, blast this weather!', there was still no signal.

Suddenly, beyond the swirling mayhem of shards of white came a powerful light, it came out of nowhere, a blinding flash causing him to lift his arm across his forehead for protection. The noise, the roar, all he could see was white, floodlit and blinding. What was happening? He felt his body shake, and still this dazzling light, and then.....nothing.

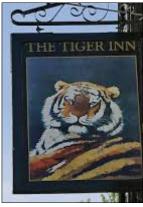

He opened his eyes, the car was dark and all was quiet. 'What the hell happened?' he asked himself. Struggling to comprehend the situation, he tried to open the car door, but it was wedged shut by the deep snow. The car was tilting over at a frightening angle and the passenger seat was now sloping upwards. He grabbed the outer side of the seat to pull himself over, first grabbing a torch from the glove compartment before struggling to push the passenger door upwards. It was free of snow and with difficulty he heaved himself over the seat and out of the car whilst trying to keep the door from slamming shut on him. He tumbled into the deep, soft snow.

He shielded he eyes against the blizzard, but the dark night made it impossible to know even in which direction he was pointing. The torch gave some light and he saw that his car was badly damaged. 'What on earth....'. Slowly realisation struck that the blinding flash and noise was the result of something powerful smashing into his car, but there was no sign of another vehicle. He shouted, but all was now silent. He shouted again, 'Is anyone there?' but still nothing. If he was where he thought he was, he knew there was no house for miles. It was Christmas Eve and most people were where they wanted to be for Christmas on a night like this. He felt strangely light headed, as though he'd had a few drinks, and when he pulled himself up to full height, he experienced a weird feeling of weightlessness. He thought if he wrapped himself in the car rug, which he kept in the boot for emergencies, he may manage to find help before the snow completely buried his car and made the road impassable by foot.

He was just about to tackle the problem of getting the boot open, when he thought he saw a faint light through the thick veil of snow. He shielded his eyes and tried to focus. Yes, thank God, it was definitely a light. Forgetting the rug he struggled towards the dim glow, each step sinking further into already knee-deep snow. To haul each foot out again for the next step was exhausting, but thankfully the light grew closer.

His calculations must be wrong, but as he struggled on, the ghostly image of a building became clearer and he saw lights inside. A noise made him look up, it was the whining and squeaking of rusty hinges holding an old metal inn sign, swinging within its wooden frame. He squinted, trying to make out a name. A large tiger with piercing green eyes looked down at him with the words The Tiger Inn now clearly visible. His confusion as to how he had arrived at an inn, which he knew was not on this road that he travelled regularly, was overridden by his joy at finding warmth and sustenance, and hopefully a landline so that he could call Ann.

He stumbled towards the entrance. The heavy oak door was stiff, but he managed with all his might to give it a hefty push with his shoulder, causing it to burst open and for him to fall inside with a crash.

Warmth and light hit him and the scene that met his eyes was a party in full swing, now brought abruptly to a halt by his clumsy and noisy entrance. Conversation stopped as the gathered eclectic mix of partygoers all turned towards the door, only the background band music played on. After a few seconds of shocked silence, an elderly man in a pin striped suit, stiff shirt collar and bow tie, and a moustache, which gave him a rather distinguished look, leapt forward and took his hand. 'I say old chap, are you alright? Here let's get you a chair.'

Another couple jumped up to help and a chair was brought, along with a brandy glass, which the barman, seeing his distress, hurriedly filled with a measure and handed it to him. He gratefully knocked the brandy back, and spent a moment to take stock of his surroundings.

There were four ladies in the room, all dressed stylishly and shimmering in cocktail dresses, embellished with jewellery, furs and feathers. There were seven men, also suitably attired, he presumed for a Christmas Eve party.

'I'm afraid my car was hit by something and has spun off the road, just a few hundred yards from here. Where am I, I thought I was on the A6 near Carlisle, but I'm now rather confused?'

'You are on the A6 old boy', said another man. 'Beastly night to be out though, good job the old Tiger Inn was nearby. We're all marooned here until this darned blizzard gives over, not where we expected to be on Christmas Eve. Lucky we've got supplies eh, like another one?'

'I'm sorry, I'm completely baffled, I know this road well and there's no pub near here.'

One of the ladies gave him a smile and a chuckle, 'Sounds as though you've had a bump on the head. Let's get you nearer the fire and I'm sure there's some warm soup in the kitchen. Harold! Get this gentleman some of your delicious soup.' She shouted to someone through what was probably the kitchen door, beyond the bar.

'Can I use your phone? My mobile hasn't any signal, and I must speak to my wife.'

The group exchanged quizzical glances, before one of the men spoke. 'Er, you're not making a lot of sense, but we do have a phone, if it's still working. I'll get the exchange for you, what's the number old chap?'

He gave his number to the man, who turned to the barman, 'I think we need to get that soup down him, and give him a bit of time to get over his ordeal. He might then be able to remember his phone number.'

He was now aware of his surroundings and the strange attire worn by the people in the room. The ladies looked very different from his usual acquaintances and he'd only seen an elegant cigarette holder such as the one held by one of the ladies, in old films. It must be a fancy dress party, he thought.

A bowl of steaming soup appeared in front of him, along with a thick slice of bread and butter. 'It's very kind of you, but I must make a phone call.'

'Sorry old boy, phone seems to be as dead as a do-do, but get this down you and as soon as we have a connection or this damn weather changes, we'll try to contact someone for you. Meanwhile, let's enjoy ourselves. Cheers!' The man held up a champagne glass and the rest of the party laughed and chinked glasses, which sparkled with fizz and cocktail cherries.'

He reluctantly turned to the soup and bread, but had to admit that it was one of the best he'd ever tasted. He ate hungrily and was grateful for the tankard of ale, which also appeared before him.

The man in the pin-striped suit was leaning with one elbow on the bar and looking at him. 'I don't think you're going anywhere tonight old boy. Why don't you make yourself comfortable in one of the bedrooms upstairs, you look as though you could do with a lie down.'

He wasn't feeling too good and the brandy and ale had made him feel sleepy. 'I think I'll do that for a couple of hours if you don't mind.'

'Not at all old boy, just call if you need anything.' The man turned to his companions, 'Merry Christmas everyone. Bottoms up, and turn that music up.'

He got up and with the help of the banisters, hauled himself up the stairs. He was now so tired, each foot seemed to be a dead weight. He opened the first door he came to on the landing and found the light switch just next to the door. There was a made up bed in the small room and he went straight to it and flopped down on the old-fashioned feather eiderdown. Before his eyes closed, he caught sight of a calendar on the far wall. Squinting and trying to focus on the writing at the top, he could have sworn he read December 1946. 'What the hell.....?' He must be dreaming.

At that moment the light went out and he was in complete darkness, but too tired to question what was happening. His eyes slowly closed and he thought of Ann who was waiting for him, before sleep took over.

The loud knocking on the door woke her suddenly. She switched on the bedside light. The clock showed 6.30 a.m. and it was still dark. It was Christmas Day and the children weren't even awake, who on earth was banging on the door? 'Oh God', she muttered, 'please don't let us have another row and confrontation in front of the children on Christmas morning.'

She quickly put on her dressing gown and went downstairs. She called, 'Joe, is that you?'

'It's the police Mrs Davies.'

Her heart filled with fear as she slowly opened the door. 'What's happened, has someone been hurt?'

Two officers, a man and a woman, stood outside the door. 'We're very sorry to wake you up at this hour on Christmas morning madam, are you Mrs Ann Davies?'

She paled and started to shiver uncontrollably, 'Yes.'

'Can we come in? I'm afraid we have some bad news concerning your husband, Mr Joseph Davies.'

She let them in and showed them into the lounge where she sat down, her white face and eyes glued to the policeman who was speaking. 'Joe? Is he OK?'

'We're very sorry to have to tell you that Mr Davies had an accident in his car last night. I'm afraid he was pronounced dead at the hospital. It was a terrible night, and his car was hit by a lorry in the blizzard.'

She stared at the two officers. 'Where?' Her voice was barely audible.

'On the A6 near Carlisle. There's a very nasty bend there, locals call it The Tiger's Tail. Visibility was almost nil last night.'

She stared up at the officer, her voice weak. 'The Tiger's Tail, why .....?' her voice trailed off.

'It's a notoriously unlucky stretch of road Mrs Davies. Not just because of accidents in recent years, but there was once an inn on that bend on the old road, called The Tiger. It was destroyed by fire on Christmas Eve in 1946. They had a blizzard on that night too, which caused a power failure and it's believed candles caused the fire. Very tragic as there were a few people who'd been stranded and were spending the night there. They all perished.'

The Manhood Wildlife and Heritage Group: Powered by Local Volunteers!

The Manhood Wildlife and Heritage Group (MWHG) is your local wildlife charity, and volunteers from across the parishes have done some fantastic work in helping to survey 38km of ditch, restore relict ponds, create hedges and meadows, and manage local wildlife sites, like East Beach pond in Selsey. The enthusiasm and energy they have for improving their local environment not only benefits wildlife, but helps reduce flood risk and improves the quality of spaces for everyone to enjoy. With funding from the FLOW Project, the MWHG has ambitious plans to survey and restore further areas for wildlife, and we need more local people to get involved and help keep our work rolling. So what it's liked volunteering for MWHG? We've asked four volunteers to give their story.

Hello I'm Sheila. I am a retired office worker and have lived in Selsey for 45 years. I love nature and the outdoors, and first got involved with MWHG after being offered a Plant Identification course. After that, I joined a work party at East Beach Pond in Selsey, and was hooked from there! As a volunteer for MWHG I particularly like doing physical work outdoors in good company. It is satisfying to see the results of the work we do, for example clearing scrub, and the new wildlife habitats that are created. It's not all hard work though, and I get a lot of enjoyment from sharing experiences, the banter and general chit chat over refreshments!

Hi, I'm Faye. I'm local to the area and study Biology in Chichester. My studies motivated me to become a volunteer with MWHG as I found the conservation and ecology topics very interesting. I also wanted more field experience to apply the theory I'd learnt at college. With MWHG I enjoy the practical outings, including surveys and moth trapping, and also the opportunity to take part in GIS mapping and data-recording. Volunteer experience is crucial for a career inconservation, and being at MWHG has given me lots of new skills and opportunities to expand my knowledge.

Hi, I'm Max. After completing a Conservation Biology degree I've returned home to Chichester. I currently work as a landscape gardener, but am looking for a career change to work in the field of conservation biology. When I heard about the work the MWHG were doing with water voles (Britain's fatest declining mammals), I was keen to get involved. Volunteering with MWHG is good fun and a chance for me to gain lots of valuable practical experience in land management, wildlife surveys and computer mapping using GIS software.

Hello, I'm Veronica. I was born in Donnington and have lived in the area for nearly 80 years. For many years I worked on an LSA holding with my husband and later at a plant nursery. I've always had green fingers and enjoy my garden, especially the wildflowers and observing the insect-life. I became involved with the MWHG after the Wildlife officer, Sarah Hughes, gave a talk at a local meeting, I put my name down to join the group, and the rest is history. With Sarah, I helped create a conservation group in my local parish, and took on the role as team leader. When I first started as a MWHG volunteer, I thought I already knew a lot about wildlife, but I'm still learning so much! I always look forward to the work parties, it's an escape from everyday concerns, and gives me a real sense of satisfaction to see what we achieve for wildlife. I enjoy the camaraderie, conversation and common purpose that comes with working with other volunteers.

At the MWHG we have a range of volunteering opportunities to suit different interests and abilities, from wildlife surveys and habitat restoration, to ranger work and helping out at events. As a volunteer, you'll find us a welcoming and supportive group, and it's also a chance to meet new friends, learn new skills and get involved with some great projects in your community. No special skills are necessary and you don't have to be super-fit either, just keen and interested.

Volunteering for MWHG couldn't be easier and there's no obligation to make a regular time commitment, so why not come along to one of our weekly events for a taster? For more information on how you can get involved, please email us on hello@mwhg.org.uk or for an informal chat please ring Rebecca on: 07379 503 033.

HAPPY NEW YEARS

If you are planning a list of New Year Resolutions that you know you will break by 2nd January, have no fear. There will be plenty of opportunities to start again.

The Gregorian calendar replaced the Julian calendar in 1582. Named after Pope Gregory the XIII it is the most widely used calendar today.

The end of the Gregorian year is traditionally celebrated on 31st December, New Years Eve. Friends and family get together to reflect on the past year, and often plan to make changes in the coming year.

Around the world the new year is greeted with celebration and fireworks.

Other cultures and religions mark the beginning of a new year at different times throughout the Gregorian year.

In 2018 Chinese New Year will be celebrated on 16th February. It is marked on the eve of the first New Moon in the Chinese Lunar Calendar which falls between 21st January and 20th February.

Colourful street festivals of Lion and Dragon dances take place in Chinese communities around the world. Paper lanterns and fireworks are part of the centuries old Chinese New Year traditions.

A time for families to come together to pay respects to deities and ancestors, in China many people are given annual leave to travel thousands of miles back to their home village. The Chinese Zodiac has a 12 year cycle and the coming New Year will be the Year of the Dog.

Jewish New Year is called Rosh Hashana and will be on the 9th September in 2018. It marks the beginning of the agricultural new year when harvest is gathered and new seed is sown.

A shofar (a hollowed out rams horn) is sounded to mark the beginning of the two day festival.

Families come together to share a special meal, and in modern times it has become common for apples dipped in honey to be served to signify the wish that everyone enjoys a 'sweet year'.

On the 11th September 2018 Muslims will celebrate the Islamic New Year. The Islamic calendar is lunar based and the year is 11 to 12 days shorter than the Gregorian Year of 365 days.

It is celebrated on the first day of Muhurram, the first month in the Islamic Calendar, which began in 622 AD. 2018 AD corresponds to 1440 AH.

Samhain is on the 31st October and is celebrated by many Pagans as the beginning of a new year.

It is a Gaelic festival marking the end of the farming year that falls half way between the Autumn and Winter Equinox. There is evidence that the Celtic festival dates back to Neolithic times and it is mentioned in early Irish literature and Medieval texts. Communities would come together to record their harvest and livestock. Huge bonfires were lit on hill tops and people would take a burning torch from the fire to their homes.

Diwali signifies the Hindu New Year and will be on the 7th of November 2018. Known as the Festival of Lights, once again fireworks , lanterns and candles form an integral part of the celebrations.

Diwali marks the triumph of light over darkness. It is traditional for people to wear new clothes and decorate their homes inside and out with many candles. Mithai (sweets) are shared to ensure a happy new year for everyone.

Light and sweet treats are a recurring theme among many new year traditions, all of which focus upon family, friends and community and the desire for a healthy and happy new year for all.

Wishing you good luck with your resolutions and Happy New Years.

This Year? Next Year? Sometime? NEVER!

To quit the EU is so damned complicated Our hand may be forced to remain Strong unity ties far too tight to unravel Their scheming to keep us quite plain To leave the EU could prove far too expensive They're taking us all to the cleaners They'll never forgive us our treacherous action Doing all in their power to demean us

It seems there is talk of a new referendum When our answer is already known Has democracy gone right out of the window? Quite tired of this threat we have grown Are we really expected to carry on voting? Again and again and again To all knuckle down for as long as it takes Until we agree to remain?

'Brexit means Brexit means Brexit means Brexit' Such a worn out and tedious phrase Uttered and muttered and squawked parrot fashion Throughout post-referendum days Hard Brexit, soft Brexit, thick Brexit, thin Brexit, Let's get the lunacy sorted Then perhaps we can focus on issues more worthy And attend to the stuff we aborted

The talking might drag on forever and ever And still they may never agree Nonsensical piffle meets jabbering waffle Their scrambled egg brains all at sea Poppycock, tommy-rot, phoney boloney Old mumbo-jumbo fuelled chatter Hot air, bunkum, balderdash, twaddle Unending meaningless patter!

Jobs for December

Provide food and water for the birds to help them get through the Winter. Put out some fat blocks or fat balls as fat is necessary in the bird's Winter diet. Continue feeding with seed mixes and peanuts.

This is a good time of the year to treat timber of sheds and fences and other structures with preservative.

Early in December, cut a few shoots from Winter flowering shrubs such as Viburnum. Primus and Winter Jasmine. Put the shoots in water and keep them in a cool place indoors. The buds will open and they make an excellent addition to Christmas decorations.

Jobs for January

Tidy up hardy perennials by cutting away any dead top-growth. Trim the stems off at soil level, making sure that you don't leave any spiky stubs which could be painful to the hands. Remove all the debris and add to the compost heap. Mulch the borders with a rich garden compost.

If a hard frost is due, move any container plants under cover for extra protection. A cold drying wind can also be damaging. Excess rain can saturate the compost which can freeze solid. Stand pots and containers on feet to assist drainage.

Prepare trenches where Beans are going to be grown. Dig the trench and gradually half fill with compost, vegetable peelings and other organic waste. Cover with soil and then sow Beans on top in April or May.

Place a terracotta forcing jar, old dustbin or deep bucket over some Rhubarb as soon as there is the first sign of growth. The protected dark condition inside will encourage the growth of early and very tender stems which are bright pink, succulent and very sweet. They will be ready to harvest in just a few weeks.

Tip Top Tips for December

Check over all Bulbs, Corms and Tubers in store for any signs of disease. Disease such as botrytis and rotting can spread rapidly. Remove any affected bulbs immediately.

Amaryllis bulbs make excellent Christmas presents. Pot some up as presents and set them so that the nose of the bulb is just at the surface of the compost. Place them somewhere cool and light to grow a little before Christmas.

Bring bulbs being forced for Christmas, such as Hyacinths, Narcissir, Daffodils, Dwarf Tulips and Crocus', into light and gentle heat.

If heat is too high, they will become too leafy. They should flower in time for Christmas, Hyacinths are very popular as they wll fill the room with their delightful scent.

Christmas presents such as winter flowering Cyclamen need special care. Cyclamen needs a cool room and good light and should be watered from underneath.

Poinsettias need warm rooms and should be kept moist but they must not get water-logged, so take great care with watering. A mist spray, occasionally in the morning, is beneficial.

Houseplants, in general, should be kept slightly moist and never place any plants anywhere near radiators or heaters.

Never move Christmas Cacti until they have finished flowering or they will drop their flowers and buds.

A thought for Christmas - "A good mind, a good heart, warm feelings - these are most important things."

Plant any new Roses before they start growth.

Purchase Summer flowering bulbs, corms and tubers for planting in early Spring.

Cover some beds with polythene or cloches to warm up the soil for early planting.

Plant bare root Trees and Shrubs.

Early Broad Beans, Peas, Parsnips and Carrots can be . sown under cloches later in the month.

- Soak roots of Amaryllis before planting.
- Prune greenhouse Grapevines.

Don't let potted Azaleas dry out - keep well watered with rain water.

Make sure bird baths are kept frost-free and bird feeders are kept full.

Use Christmas Holly decorations, when dry, to place in flower and vegetable borders to deter cats.

Bend over a leaf on Cauliflower heads to prevent frost damage.

Leave a corner of Nettles as it will encourage many species of Butterfly to lay their eggs.

I wish everyone a very relaxing and blessed Christmas and the very best of luck in the garden in 2018.

I have just been to the optician – he asked me when my eyes were last checked, I said they have always been blue..

23) Of which US State is Sioux Falls the largest city?

25) What is Scotland's oldest University?

So, here it is....in the inimitable words of Noddy Holder....'IT'S CHRISTMAS!! (Slade, circa 1976) So, brace yourselves for the neverending Christmas music in the shops and accept the fact that by December 25th you will have everything in your wallet you could possibly imagine – except money.

I have absolutely no idea where 2017 went - suffice to say, though, I'm quite glad that it's almost done. Some years are generally good, others not so good and sadly, the Johnson family's 2017 left a lot to be desired. I am hoping for a far better 2018. Funny how life has a habit of occasionally biting you on the leg, isn't it?

So, are we ready for the big day, then? That was, by the way, a rhetorical question – I have no real desire to know that you have completely finished your Christmas shopping and are sitting there, probably justifiably feeling quite smug, that whilst the rest of us run around like headless chickens for the next three weeks, you can sit down with a nice G and T or whatever your favourite tipple is.

Regular readers will know that I'm pretty disorganised when it comes to Christmas but somehow it all comes together. Despite every year determining to make sure I'm prepared, I never am and find myself having a mini breakdown on Christmas Eve. It is, I keep telling myself, just one day out of 365 (or indeed 366) but it's a day when we can lay down memories and that's what makes it all worthwhile.

Last month, in an effort to look intelligent I mentioned Oliver Cromwell and mince pies (in the same sentence, which I think was pretty impressive) and said that I would have a look for some more 'fun facts' associated with this auspicious month. So, get the notebooks out and prepare to impress friends and family over the Brussels sprouts....

Hanging out the Christmas stockings is, in fact, a Dutch custom which goes back to a time when they would leave shoes packed with food to feed St. Nicholas' donkeys. As a thank you, he would leave small gifts in return.

The now largely ignored custom of putting tangerines in Christmas stockings comes from the 12th century nuns who left fruit and nuts at the houses of the poor.

The first commercial Christmas cards were commissioned by civil servant Sir Henry Cole in London in 1843. Featuring a family drinking wine, one sold for £8,469 in 2014.

Robins on cards started as a joke 150 years ago when postmen wore red tunics and were named after them.

Rudolph the red nosed reindeer was actually invented by an American firm for their Christmas promotion in 1938.

The man himself has to visit 822 homes a second in order to deliver all the presents. He travels at 650 miles a second. In order to do this he invokes Christmas magic which, of course, makes all things possible on Christmas Eve.

Just round the corner from Christmas, of course, is January. The turkey's been eaten, the presents unwrapped, the Queen's speech has been listened to and that can only mean one thing....the sales! Now, January is a very disturbing month for me because so many of my family members were born in January – my daughter included. The only positive I draw from that is that all the sales are on! Trouble is though, that you really should think before you shop especially if, like me, you were cursed with expensive tastes but a low budget. No matter how much we've over indulged during the festive season or how many presents we've unwrapped there's always something about the sales. Despite the cold and the damp, we're there! Don't treat January sales like a bit of fun, though – you may tell yourself that you're only window shopping but, trust me on this, it's very hard to avoid walking past the window if you've just spotted a bargain.

The other problem is, of course, being enticed into buying something you don't need or will never wear so, if you find yourself saying something like 'oh wow – those mustard coloured 1970's style flares are 90% off'– it might be better to just step away from the sales completely.....Trouble is that we are just sucked into all these signs which say 50% off or 'unrepeatable offer'. There's something about those big red signs that makes our hearts soar. For me, I actually enjoy the chase – I get a strange sort of satisfaction hunting the bargains down. The problem there is that there's always the possibility of buying something we don't really want or need just because we're scared of missing out of something. So, take this from one who knows – Beware!

So, as 2017 draws to an end, I'd like to say a massive thank you to everyone who has taken the time to call, e-mail me or indeed speak to me in person over the last year about my monthly 'Deliberations'. Writing is a strange job – it's quite solitary and can be a bit isolating so it's brilliant to know that some of my fellow residents actually enjoy my ramblings. Even if you don't, feel free to tell me but I would recommend that you get me on a 'good day!'

So, all the very best to you for Christmas and 2018. Look after yourselves and keep warm. One last thing...remember, you're never too old to bonk someone over the head with the wrapping paper tube.

Our need for a dedicated art centre continues to grow as people of all ages become involved with our various art-based activities. New members will receive a friendly welcome and are encouraged to become involved.

At the Art group meetings on Tuesday mornings and Thursday evenings a wide range of materials is available which members are free to try out before deciding upon what to purchase for their own use. Help is always at hand as we learn from each other or at workshops run by local professional artists or a group member with a particular talent. For example some of us recently benefitted from a session with Janet Woods-Lemon as she taught us how to create colourful art coasters with fused glass – see Arts Dream website or on Facebook.

Our most recent project has been figure drawing run by Clare Pretorius and Nicola Aspin when the tables were turned into easels and everyone was able to create large drawings of Clare, suitably attired in black with white tape stripes to show how the body can be divided up into sections – it was the Great British Art Competition all over again! Our sincere thanks to Janet, Clare and Nicola!

This week we had an all day workshop with popular artist and wonderful teacher, Soraya French. Almost as soon as she arrived she launched into an exciting demonstration of how to paint flowers with acrylic inks and paint. Silence reigned as the flowers emerged from a colourful background. Then it was our turn to get to work! No problem? Well, with Soraya always at hand to help we all achieved better results than if we had been left to our own devices – which has happened on occasions. Needless to say, tutors are selected very carefully and discussions with members of other art groups do come in useful!

We are very grateful to Susan Field for organising an exciting workshop programme for 2018 so we have plenty to look forward to! On January 19th Anita Beckwith will be in action in St Wilfrid's Church Hall for an Experimental Day using acrylics with a new and modern twist!

These all day workshops are open to anyone so for more details please contact Jan Bush 01243 607821 or Angela Benwell 01243 603332.

Beginners & Returners

Do you sometimes long to pick up a pencil and start to draw again – or consider joining an art group but lack the confidence to come and have a go?

We have two thriving art groups where many of the members have not drawn or painted a picture since they left school who suddenly find that they are enjoying themselves and making friends in the process. Want to know more? Please call Angela Benwell 603332 or Jan Bush 607821

Seasonal delights at Pagham Habour & Medmerry

Christmas is upon us and robins adorn many a vuletide card with their bright red breasts amongst the green holly, but according to legend it was originally a plain brown bird! There are a number of stories telling how the robin got its crimson hue. One version says it was touched with the blood of Christ as he hung on the cross while trying to remove thorns from the crown, another whilst trying to staunch the wound in Christ's side made by the legionnaire's lance. A more seasonal tale however, suggests that when the baby Jesus was in the manger, a fire was lit for warmth which flared up strongly. The robin flew down to protect the child from the blaze and in doing so was scorched by the flames.

Despite being characterised with the festive season, robins are of course with us all year round and for some the appearance of winter thrushes is a more significant symbol of this harsh time of year. Flocks of fieldfare arrive from Scandinavia, Iceland and Northern Europe ahead of freezing fronts that push them south in search of food. These large thrushes sport slate grey heads and rumps, chestnut backs, black tails and speckled arrows on their orangey chests. As their name suggests they travel across the land, chuckling as they go with a 'chacker chack, chack', often in the company of their smaller cousins the redwing. Both birds can be seen in the hedgerows and fields across Pagham Harbour and Medmerry reserves.

Our resident siskin and redpoll populations are boosted with migrants, also from Scandinavia and Northern Europe. These pretty little finches normally feed in the countryside but are attracted to nyjer and nut feeders at this time of year. Siskins have streaky greenyellow bodies with yellow wing bars and redpolls have stripy brown bodies, red foreheads and little black bibs.

If you would like to learn more about how to identify these and other bird species, we are running another Bird Watching for Beginners course starting in January 2018.

Need inspiration for Christmas gifts? We have vouchers for our Bird Watching for Beginners, Wildlife Photography, Artists Wildlife Painting courses and our Guided walks as well as RSPB membership packs, all available from our Visitor Centre on the B2145 north of Selsey. ## Wake Me Up When It's Over by Michael Blencowe of the Sussex Wildlife Trust

Well that was a scary year wasn't it? Nuclear threats, freak storms and headlines filled with hate. Never before in my life have I felt such a strong urge to just curl up in a ball and go to sleep for a very, very long time. This defeatist attitude is a way of life for the hazel dormouse who each year scrawls the words 'do not disturb' across its calendar for November, December, January, February, March and April and turns in for a long, long nap.

The feeling that your future is quickly becoming uncertain and dangerous is one which we can now all relate to. For the dormouse it's an annual event. The onset of colder weather each autumn signals that the dormouse diet of flowers, fruit, seeds, insects and nuts will soon vanish. So each winter instead of struggling to survive it simply shuts down and sleeps. Dormice are nocturnal, feeding at night amongst trees and bushes. In October they can double in weight as they stock up on food before hard times arrive. Which reminds me, I need to pick up a few trolleys full of tinned goods next time I'm in Tesco.

When they have sufficiently stuffed their cute little faces these rotund rodents descend to a ground-floor dormitory, a tightly woven nest under moss and leaves, and become dormant. Heart-rate and breathing reduce by over 90% and body temperature is dropped to just a few degrees above freezing. This means dormice don't need much energy to stay alive and valuable fat reserves are burnt very slowly. Not many British mammals actually hibernate. Sure, badgers and squirrels enter a deep sleep for longer periods but they're not hibernating - they're merely in 'stand by' mode and can reawaken quickly. Full hibernation requires a complete shutdown, pulling the power plug (almost) completely out of the wall. Of our British mammals just dormice, hedgehogs and the bats hibernate.

Yet it isn't just Britain's longest lie-in that has earned the dormouse its sleepy reputation. Even after it has woken up in May the dormouse will readily hit the 'snooze' button and drop back into a torpid semi-hibernation as a way of avoiding any hassle. Not much food available yet? Back to sleep. Too wet to go out and find food? Back to sleep. Simply can't be bothered? Back to sleep. Sleep seems like an easy alternative to life's problems but hibernation and torpor have a high price; if a predator finds you you're too tired to wake up and run away.

So as our world shuts down around us and compassion, respect and hope get stripped away we can't just shut down and forget about it like the dormouse. We can't let 'em catch us sleeping. We have to stay wide awake and vigilant, ready to stand up and make the world around us a better place. Let's hope that when that sleepy ol' dormouse wakes up again in 2018 the world will be a little bit brighter. For www.sussexwildlifetrust.org.uk evervone.

Double Chocolate Magnum

This December let us introduce a handsome gentleman called Double Chocolate Magnum. He is a stunning 10 year old male rabbit. He came to the Centre in July 2017 after his owner who loved him very much passed away. He is very friendly and loves to have lots of fuss and cuddles. His favorite time of day is the morning when the staff goes in to check the rabbits and he runs over excited that someone is coming to talk to him. He has a special bed he sleeps on complete with a pillow and loves his food. He would love to be homed as either a single house bunny or he can be bonded with a spayed female. He is unneutered as our vet feels he is too old to be put through the operation. He would love to find a forever home to live out his golden years and be loved again. Please if you think you can offer Double Chocolate Magnum the new home he so desperately deserves, please do not hesitate to contact us here at the Cat and Rabbit rescue centre.

Hulky Bear November

Hello it's me again your out and abouter reporter for the Cat and Rabbit Rescue Centre, Hulky Bear.

Welcome to my final report of 2017. I don't know where this year has gone it has flown by so quickly.

Some sad news to start I lost a good friend a few weeks ago. Solomon passed away suddenly he was one of the out and abouter cats for about 20

One of my other friends here is Ada Pretty she also has lived here for about 20 years and as a lady we do not talk about her age. A few months ago she had a very bad eye. It made her very sad. Our vet had to remove the eye. She recovered well but I wanted to do something to cheer her up after her operation. I started a training programme for her on how to do some reporting under my supervision of course. She is now writing features and coming along really well. Losing her eye has made her even more pretty and she is now looking amazing.

The staff here have now put all our rabbits and guinea pigs in their winter accommodation it gets very cold out in the rabbit enclosure so they need to be in more sheltered pens during these cold months.

Don't forget we stop homing over Christmas, all the animals will be looking forward to special treats on the day. Of course no turkey bones for the cats as it can cause injuries but some fresh turkey for lunch will be on my present list. I want to wish you all a very Happy Christmas and New Year. I hope to see you all in 2018.

If you are interested in adopting a cat, kitten, rabbit or guinea pig then please call us here at the centre on 01243 641409 between 9-4pm during the week.

PS: We have a Viewing Day Saturday 27th January 2018 12-2pm. Viewing days are non-appointment days so people thinking of adopting a cat can pop along. Otherwise we rehome 7 days a week by appointment only.

Brent Lodge Briefings – Back to the wild

The last few months have been busy for us with releasing many of our rehabilitated bird patients, before the winter really kicks in. These included a variety of species such as Tawny Owls, Sparrows, Little Owl, Collared doves, Greylag geese, Pheasants, Buzzards, Kestrels, Feral pigeons / Woodpigeons and many many Gulls. Lots of our hedgehogs have been released from inside the hospital too with many more due for release over the coming few weeks.

subject of releasing, one of our dedicated volunteers, Mike has been busy at work, designing and building a new portable release aviary that can be taken to different locations to release our birds. These can be anything from sparrows to owls. He has designed it to be an easy to assemble flat-pack that fits perfectly into our van. It can be taken to a location and set up in minutes which is great. So, a huge thank you to Mike for all of his hard work.

This great new aviary is already being put to use in some private woodlands, where 3 of our tawny owls are being soft released. They will be able to get familiar with their new surroundings from the comfort of their nice new little aviary. Then the release hatch in the roof of the aviary will be lifted so they can find their way out. The owner of the woods will continue to provide food for them for a while to support them until they 'find their wings' and no longer return for food.

In the new year we hope to finalise the plans for our hospital extension, where we plan to nearly double the size of our hospital site creating 2 running wards, which means we can accommodate more wildlife patients in need than ever before. Our 3-year plan will see some very exciting changes at the hospital, where we will be knocking down and rebuilding all sorts of different infrastructures over the site including new aviaries, larger enclosures, improved rehabilitation areas and most importantly a modern hospital ward. Keep an eye out for our updates in 2018 and ways your support can help us achieve this.

In the meantime we hope you have a lovely Christmas and Happy New Year and look forward to sharing more Brent Lodge news soon!

THE CAT & RABBIT RESCUE CENTRE

Have you visited the Cat & Rabbit Rescue Centre Charity Shop at 9 The Parade, Selsey?

It is full of fantastic bric-a-brac, including antiques, pictures, jewellery, as well as clothes for every occasion, beautiful bedding, curtains, craft items, and good quality furniture.

If you have time to spare, why not become a volunteer, just visit Sue or Nicky in the shop.

The Apuldram Centre

(a local independent charity, 1/2 mile south of Chichester) has been a prime training centre for over 25 years supporting adults with learning disabilities, including many Selsey residents.

Over that period we have been able to engender and extend the sense of self responsibility and independence for those who choose to attend the centre. This work is undertaken by staff and volunteers whose belief in the Apuldram ethos is the mainstay for our success. Our services enable the people we support to take part in a wide range of occupational related activities that demonstrate ability rather than disability and disadvantage.

The Apuldram Centre is pleased to announce that from 16th November through to 22nd December we will operate a pop up shop from 129 High Street, Selsey, from Thursday to Saturday, 9.30am to 4.30pm.

The aim of the pop up shop is to sell goods made by the Apuldram community, to promote the work of the charity, to give the people we support an opportunity to work alongside volunteers in the shop and to inform residents and businesses about the way they can partner with us to make a local difference.

We do hope the you can come along to browse, chat or buy, we really do look forward to meeting you.

(ALL DONATIONS MOST WELCOME)

May I take this opportunity to thank all the wonderful people of Selsey for the generosity shown during the recent Poppy Fortnight. The collecting boxes have been opened and counted by my friends at Bunn Leisure and I list below the results (so far).

May I also take the opportunity to thank all the dedicated Poppy Collectors who once again gave up much of their free time to collect for this worthy cause. For the first time in many years the response to my advertising for more collectors was so great that I actually had to put a husband and wife on my reserve list for next year as, on paper, every street in Selsey had a collector this year (and it's been a long time since I have been able to say that). Fantastic.

Eight new collectors joined the team this year but some others have been with us for so long that I had the honour to present them with long service awards. They were:

10 YEARS

Julie Dann, Chris Donovan, Ann Grundy, Kareen Kennett-Clay and John Mair

15 YEARS Brian Hall

20 YEARS Denny Warwick

30 YEARS (The very first one to a lady in Selsey) Kim Wilson

Thank you all once again and remember that although we only sell poppies for 15 days each year the appeal actually goes on nonstop so donations are always welcome.

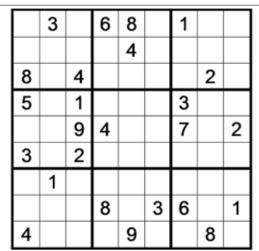

Here are the results of the Poppy Collection for 2017 (so far)

The House-To-House collecting was £3560.91, Street collecting £2073.15 and boxes in shops, pubs, schools etc. £2594.36 a combined total of £8228.42 This is an incredible increase on last year's total of £1183.89.

So far 8 organisations have given a donation for their wreaths totalling £285, the Remembrance Service collection was £172.58. Add to all that various private donations and the full total collected so far to this day (Thur. 16th Nov) is a magnificent £8927.69.

My heart-felt thanks to all the generous people of Selsey and Best Wishes to you all.
